James Madison College offers four majors: International Relations, Comparative Cultures and Politics, Social Relations and Policy, and Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy.

This is an academically challenging program that develops analytical, problem solving, and strong communications skills. Because of this emphasis, top corporations, government agencies, graduate schools, and law schools recruit our students.

We encourage high school students interested in politics, history, government, law, sociology, international affairs, and public policy to consider James Madison College at Michigan State University during their college search. Learn more by visiting our website:
